Our Teachers, Insurance of Education

Our Teachers, the Insurance of Education Project, which is being carried out in cooperation with the Ministry of National Education, Turkish Education Association and Zurich Insurance, continues unabated. The project was launched with 50 female teachers teaching in disadvantaged areas. The main purpose of the project is to support female teachers who are assigned to villages/districts in their first years of their profession, to improve the quality of their professional lives by giving them a better start to their working life, and to raise hope for their students.

Innovation Vision Action Plan Phase 2

Groups of TED University students searched for innovative solutions in the focus areas of education, health, environment, food and smart cities in IdeathonTEDU which is co-organized by VIVEKA and TEDU. In all processes of IdeathonTEDU, gender equality was adopted as one of the basic principles. During the selection of the students who applied to IdeathonTEDU, the balance between the number of male and female students was considered as one of the most important selection criteria. In addition, utmost care was taken to ensure a balanced number of male and female students during the formation of the contestant groups.

Gender Equality Plan 2022-2025

TED University Gender Equality Plan was accepted on September 13, 2022, with the Senate decision numbered 2022/19-5.

The rationale for creating a Gender Equality Plan for TED University is to mainstream gender equality among the administrative and academic staff members as well as the students of the university, and to develop and monitor an action plan thereof. A Gender Equality Plan, as defined by the European Commission, is a set of commitments and actions that aim to promote gender equality in an organization through a process of structural change.

TED University's Gender Equality Plan covers from 2022 to 2025. It is envisioned that the goals would be attained in three stages: Short term: until June 30, 2023, Medium term: until June 30, 2024, Long term: until December 31, 2025.

Data were collected in the following 5 key action areas in the survey study and focus group interviews:

- Work-Life Balance and Organizational Culture
- Gender Balance in Leadership and Decision-Making
- Gender Equality in Recruitment and Career Progression
- Integration of the Sex/Gender Dimension into Research and Teaching Content
- Measures Against Gender-Based Violence, Including Sexual Harassment and Assault

Sanitary Pad Support

Taxes on pads and tampons in Turkey make it challenging to access menstrual products. In Turkey, 18 percent tax is applied to menstrual products under the Luxury Consumption Tax. However, menstrual products should be evaluated under the basic needs category. Due to the inflation-induced price increases in Turkey, women, poor people, and university students bring up the “menstrual poverty.” The price increases in many products due to the significant hikes in services within the scope of basic housing needs such as electricity and natural gas led to the “basic needs and tax” discussion. In addition to the call for zero value-added tax for food products, women also demand a zero tax for menstrual products. Research (1) conducted by the Deep Poverty Network shows that 82 percent of women participants do not have access to pads, and only 18 percent can access pads without any support. Another research (2) conducted with more than 6,500 university students in France reveals that 13 percent of participants had to sacrifice another basic need to buy tampons or pads. A third of participants say they need financial support to buy these products. It is clear that menstrual poverty is a social issue and a real problem in terms of equality. To cope with this problem, a certain amount of pads will be provided free of charge in our university to be used in cases where pad access is difficult. The pads provided are a gift from TED University and the Center for Gender Studies to the members of our university for March 8, International Women’s Day.

"Building Feminist Bridges in Academia" Seminar Series

We maintained the seminar series titled "Establishing Feminist Bridges in Academia", which was initiated in order to create a dialogue between feminist academics working in the center and peripheral universities. Through these seminars, it is aimed both to ensure the flow of information from the periphery to the center and to create a platform for early career women academics to announce their work, thus sowing the seeds of future projects between feminist academics working in the center and the periphery.

Attainment and gender equality in higher education : Evidence from a large scale expansion

We examine the causal effects of the drastic expansion in Turkish higher education on the attainment disadvantage of women, by using the variation in exposure intensity across cohorts and regions. The expansion increased the attainment rates of both genders, but did not significantly reduce the gender gap after controlling for time trend. Studying the mechanisms, we observe that the expansion in social sciences, more than half of additional slots, benefited men and women evenly; but the expansion in engineering, about 25% of additional slots, benefited men more. The results are robust to a wide range of checks for alternative specifications, samples, and policies.

A Netnographic Analysis on Ayşe Arman's News Series on Berfin Özek, the Victim of Acid Attack

Netnography, a new method, works on conducting ethnographic analysis using idle data accumulated on digital platforms. Dr. Burcu Asena-Salman, the author of one of the first PhD dissertations in Turkey to use Netnography, analyzes the news about Berfin Özek, which Ayşe Arman has been publishing in her column on Instagram since 2019, and the comments of her followers with this method. When more than 3000 comments under each post are analyzed one by one, society's perspective on violence against women is revealed. When Berfin Özek officially married Ozan Çeltik, the perpetrator of the crime, Arman made her last news article on the subject.

We will be delighted to welcome your participation in the event titled "A Netnographic Analysis on Ayşe Arman's News Series on Berfin Özek, the Victim of Acid Attack" with Prof. Dr. Burcu Asena-Salman.

Yeni bir yöntem olan Netnografi, dijital platformlarda biriken atıl veriyi kullanarak etnografik analiz yapmak üzerine çalışır. Türkiye'de Netnografinin kullandığı ilk doktora tezlerinden birinin yazarı olan Dr. Burcu Asena-Salman, Ayşe Arman'ın, 2019'dan bu yana Instagram'da yürüttüğü köşesinde yayınladığı Berfin Özek haberlerini ve takipçi yorumlarını da bu yöntemle analiz etmektedir. Her gönderinin altına yapılan 3000'den fazla yorum teker teker ele alındığında, toplumun kadına karşı şiddete bakış açısı ortaya çıkmaktadır. Berfin Özek'in, suçu işleyen Ozan Çeltik'le resmen evlenmesiyle Arman konu hakkındaki son haberini yapmıştır.

Dr. Burcu Asena-Salman ile gerçekleştireceğimiz 'Ayşe Arman'ın, Kezzap Saldırısı Mağduru Berfin Özek Haber Dizisi Üzerine Netnografik Bir Analiz' başlıklı etkinliği katılımınız bizleri mutlu edecektir.

TEDU Gender Podcast

In the sixth episode of TEDU Gender Podcast, Şule Akdoğan interviews Melisa Ayşegül Çal, author of Red Hooded Girl, in the context of children's literature, narratives and gender. The episode begins by discussing how The Girl in the Red Hood, which is shaped in the context of Covid-19, is constructed differently from Little Red Riding Hood and thus turns into a narrative that questions stereotypical masculine language narratives and their impact on gender roles, emphasizing the importance of the intersection of literature and gender studies for inclusive and equitable education.

"Women's struggle for life"

In the seventh episode of TEDU Gender Podcast, Dr. Burcu Sarı Karademir, volunteer member of the center, hosts Dr. Gülsüm Kav, General Representative of We Will Stop Femicide Platform. In the interview, they commemorate the Mirabal Sisters, the so-called Butterflies, on November 25th, the Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, and talk about the lives touched by the Platform to Stop Femicide with the butterfly effect, the struggle in the field and women's right to life.

Dr. Gülsüm Kav, who was selected by the BBC as one of the 100 Most Inspiring Women in 2020, said that she was ashamed to receive the award for doing something that should have been done, and that she accepted the award magnanimously on behalf of all the women who fought for women's rights at the cost of their lives, but the struggle of Gülsüm Kav and the We Will Stop Femicide Platform to defend women's constitutional rights in Turkey is very important and valuable both in terms of women's right to life today and the history of the struggle for women's rights in Turkey.

Dr. Gülsüm Kav shared her valuable experiences and talked about the establishment of the Platform, the concept of femicide, the importance of investigating suspicious deaths, the fact that women are subjected to violence and killed when they want to take their own decisions about their lives and most often while exercising or after exercising their right to divorce under the Civil Code, the impact of the decision to withdraw from the Istanbul Convention on women's struggle against violence, the Platform's efforts to protect women based on their class, sexual orientation and sexual orientation, The Platform's defence of the right to life regardless of belief or ethnicity and its inclusiveness, the demand for freedom by women from all segments of society and the fact that mainstream politics is not even aware that it has fallen behind women's demands, the lawsuit to shut down the Platform and its importance in the context of protecting our Constitutional rights, the bond of sisterhood that makes us believe that the Platform has never been and will never be left alone by women, the duties of universities in the women's struggle, and the liberating family, love and life for a different world were mentioned with hope.

This interview, which notes the depth of this struggle, is dedicated to the Mirabal Sisters, to the women whose lives were incomplete due to male violence, to those who fought for equality and freedom at the cost of their lives, to feminists whose lives are interwoven with the struggle for women's rights, and to the 'Purple Butterflies' of the Platform to Stop Femicide, the defender of women's right to life and freedom. We thank Gülsüm Kav and the We Will Stop Femicide Platform with feelings of gratitude on behalf of all the lives they have touched. With the stubbornness and hope to continue the struggle for freedom until Nazım's dream for humanity, "To live as one and free as a tree and as brotherly as a forest" becomes a reality for our sisters and for all of us...
